About Us

To promote effective skin and wound care management and to help ensure more personalized care, the Wound & Skin Care Clinic relies on a distinctive four-step process:

- Diagnose-Our multi-disciplinary team of experts evaluates your wound and skin condition by identifying the cause, addressing any underlying medical conditions, and reviewing your skin and wound history.
- Treat-After the preliminary diagnosis has been determined, treatment options are discussed. Throughout the course of treatment, the team closely monitors the progress of the skin or wound and may alter the course of treatment to improve results, if necessary. As the patient, you are the most important member of the team and always a part of the decision making process.
- Educate-To further promote taking an active role, you will be instructed in several areas during the healing process. Specialists will teach you how to change your dressing, examine your skin, and if applicable, suggest ways to alter certain lifestyle habits to prevent new wounds or conditions.

- Support-Before, during and after the treatment process, we make sure your referring physician is updated every step of the way. After ending your prescribed treatment, follow-up appointments may be recommended.

The First Visit

Your physician will refer you for your first visit. Before treatment begins at the Wound & Skin Care Clinic, you will meet with a Wound Center physician who will perform an assessment and review your medical history. Certain tests may be necessary to provide important information.

Pre-Planning

To prepare for your first visit, please provide the following information: current medications or herbal treatments you are using, any food and/or drug allergies and past or present wound care products or treatments.

Staffed by certified ostomy nurses, the Clinic provides:

- Preoperative counseling
- Experienced professional support during the pre- and post-operative period
